

As we enter the holiday season, and particularly with the challenges that this year has brought, I am more aware than ever of all that I have to be thankful for.

For my wife and I, we are so blessed to have welcomed our first child into the world this year - a baby boy named Henry. In him, I see all of the wonder that gives me hope, a calmness that shows peace, a playfulness that shows joy, and I feel a kind of love like no other.

Wishing everyone a very Merry Christmas!

*Jordan, Signy, and Henry Back
December 2020*

