

Looking for a way to re-use some Amazon packaging or empty boxes?

This year has shown us the importance of our social ties. For most of 2020, we've been unable to hang out with our besties, gather for book club, sing hymns and carols as a group, or hug many of our nearest and dearest close to our heart.

Why not release some of that pent-up affection by writing "love notes" to your friends or family members this Christmas? Take an old Amazon envelope or other type of packaging material, and fill it with memories, photos, or notes telling that special someone just how much your relationship means to you. Don't be shy – enthusiastically extol their quirks, qualities and virtues! This is the year to wear your heart on your sleeve.

Then have some fun leaving the package on their doorstep in the dead of night, or sending it in the post. Imagine their surprise when they open a package from "Amazon" and find it brimming with love!
